PRETTY DANCING PARTY FOR MISS TURNER

Entertainments that Gave Pleasure to the Social Lions -- Another Debutante Launched Into the Gay World-Doings of a Minor Nature,

If it is the pace that kills, then some of the more fragile members of the beau monde will have to stop a bit in their society career, else will the sick room claim a few victims before the dawn of Ash Wednesday. The pace set by the younger crowd has been unprecedented, and the grand round of functions includes every known form of entertainment. The week past has been filled with events of a social nature and there is no apparent diminution in the number of affairs to come. The debutantes are commencing to show the effects of the mad rush just a little, and Lent will be welcomed with rejoicing, for it will bring a modicum of rest in its train at least.

An Interested Observer contributes the following to the society columns of THE BEE If Mrs. Peattle in her recent criticism o Omaha society entitled "Stand Up Ye Socia Lions," intended to arouse the combative ness of the so-called social lion as well as the indignation and disgust of all those conversant with the subject, she has necom-plished its purpose, not owing to the soundness of her criticism, but to its gross njustice and palpable misrepresentation of

is a matter of wonderment to many who have reason to suppose that In society from what source Mrs. Peattle has obtained her information. Where in the name of society she has observed these glaring abuses of common conventionality We must presume one of two things; eithe Mrs. Penttie in her zeal for criticism has knocked at the wrong door, and, thinking she was writing up society, has, in fact come in contact with the mediocrity, or, or the other hand, charity would suggest that she has sir ply been cruelly deceived and misinformed on the subject she attempts to

We will proceed on this supposition. There is no doubt that a great deal may be said in criticism of London and New York society and the same might be applied to a certain extent to Omaha society, or rather to a few individuals composing it, but Mrs. Peattie is far too severe in her criticisms and too general in her terms, as well as absolutely mistaken in most of her statements. Regarding the success of Omaha entertainments this season, of course I don't know what "one hears whispered everywhere," but I do know that most of the parties this season have been very successful and very enjoyable in every respect, and if there has en any lack of attention on the part of the men it may be attributed to the fact that comparatively few of them are going out this winter, and not that they are in any way deresict in their social duties when present at entertainments, and as for the noticeable feature that Mrs. Peattle suggests of the men "standing around in stupid groups dis cussing the charms of the young ladies," the picture is too absurd for discussion, and is absolutely without fact as being it way characteristic as a custom of Omaha's society men.

I really appreciate Mrs. Peattie's charity in her gentle handling of the bolder sex, but the "fond mammas" and the "young girls so shamelessly thrust in the matrimonial mar-Where! on where did this remarks ble writer get her ideas on this subject From the Figaro or the Kansas City Sunday Sun? I believe that is about on a par with the expression of this class of papers in their wild ravings against society and or kindred subjects.

If the innocent enjoyment of a young girl in attending dancing parties, receptions, af-ternoon teas, and in social intercourse with her friends, especially in the exuberance of her first season out, is to be construed into the "putting up of a young girl into the matrimonial market," I have not a word to say in contradiction to such a proposition; moreover, and I know whereof I speak, it is not the impression or understanding of the young men of Omaha society that a young woman's coming out is an expression of her willingness to be married. The suggestion is absurd and is a cruel injustice and reflection upon the young women as well as the mothers constituting Omaha society.

Now on the subject of the Yale concer and ball, supposing this affair was made a social event and a successful one, it was the only entertainment of the kind this season, for the reason that our extravagant society goers in their reckless expenditure of mone for frivolities did not feel able to support a social organization of any kind during the existing hard times. The Yale concert did dot take out of town a dollar more, if as much, as the companies that gave their per-formances at Boyd's theater. Many of them I am sure, not as worthy or commendable as this concert. And another thing, Mrs. Peattle should remember that all this demenstration and the pairs expended by the Yale men of Omaha was not simply for the purpose of entertaining these "boys," as she is pleased to term them, but to show, in a angible form, their high esteem and honor for their alma mater, dear old Yale! If this is objectionable to the lady's sense of propriety we are extremely sorry that her invitation to the ball failed to reach its destina

The gross mis-statements in this tirade against society and the bitter denunciation f every one connected with it cannot fail to place the writer in the position before the public of a discontented outsider, who. participating in none of the enjoyments of ociety, has gladly seized the opportunity to to rail at those more favored by accepting as true any information which has come to hand and by maliciously applying to the whole of society the shortcomings and fallings of the few.

Miss Bishop's Kensington.

A unique idea was successfully carried out Wednesday afternoon at the kensington given by Miss Bishop at her home in honor of her sister, Mrs. Edward Peck, Over thirty books were represented in different parts of the handsome rooms by articles placed so as to form in an enigmatical way the name of some book, and the task imposed on the guests was to guess what they meant. Many of the names were very cleverly concealed, but Mrs. Will Redick was bright enough to untangle the most names, for which she received a bunch of beautiful roses, while Miss Reese won the booby prize a bunch of paper flowers. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Among those present were: Miss Bessie Yates, Miss Jentie Yates, Miss Johnson, Miss Lemon, Miss Kountze, Miss Carnahan, Miss Decring, Miss Donne, Miss Curtis, Miss Hughes, Miss Bache, Miss Dandy, Miss Reese, Miss Chamers, the Misses Baich, Miss Himebaugh, Miss Siiloway, Miss Chambers, Miss Ray Chambers, Miss Anna Millard, Miss Helen Millard, Miss Palmer, Miss Boyd, Miss Wakeley, Miss Hoyt, Miss Sharpe, Miss Howe, Miss Chaso, Miss Barker, Miss Dewey, Miss Chandler, Mrs. Will Redick, Mrs. Wilbur, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Learned, Mrs. Funkhouser.

A "Shakespeare Pie" Opened. Mrs. G. W. Cook at her kensington, given in honor of her daugnter, Miss Margaret

Cook, Friday afternoon, introduced a decided novelty to the young women present the name of the novel idea being "Shake speare Pie," and so jolly was the innovation that "Dickens pudding," "Thackeray fricassee" and "Byron frappe" will shortly be exploited by the society women who seek for new forms of entertainment. Five tissue paper pies, each cut into eight pieces, were distributed among the guests. Each piece contained ton familiar Shakespearian quotations cut into words and each person was requested to put the phrases together. Of course those who had a "speaking" acquaintance with Will of Avon found little trouble in grouping the phrases, but there were those who found it exceedingly difficult to unite the knotty However, at was jolly fun and greatly enjoyed by the guests, who were Misses Margaret Brown, Curtis, Lala Alexauder, Lou Drake, Amy Barker, Van Kuran, Himebaugh, Silloway, Hartman, Cady, Tolpetzer, Hughes, Sargeot, McKell, Baum, Launched Her Daughter. For her daughter's debut in the world of society Mrs. W. H. Alexander gave a most delightful reception Tuesday afternoon. Miss Alexander could not have had a more flattering reception as a debutante, the older and younger sets vying with each other in showing the fair young daughter of the surveyor of customs of the port of Omaha how welcome she was into the harmed circle. The house was a bower of green, with nere and there hyacinths and Chinese lilies here and there hyacinths and Chinese lilies to add to the beauty of the rooms.

Mrs. Alexander and the young novitiate received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Raymona and Mrs. Burnham of Lincoin, and Miss Tukey. Miss Pratt presided over the punch bowl, while Miss Colpetzer, Miss Brownie Baum and Miss Hartman looked after the comfort of the guests throughout the rooms which were crossed during the he rooms, which were crowded during the ours of the reception. The list of invited guests included the heads of Omaha's representative families, together with the younger set, who have had unlimited opportunities this winter to test the ability of Omaha hostesses, for the metropolis has never had a more brilliant season than that of 1898-4.

Harmony Ciub Doings. The Harmony club began work Friday night on "Israel in the Wilderness," a cantata by A. R. Gaul, which, in adultion to one or two short choruses, will be given by full orchestra and organ accompaniment at the First Methodist Episcopal church some time this spring. The cantata calls for soprano, tenor and baritone soloists, who cannot be named at this early date. There were about seventy members present, which will be increased to about 100, and from the enthusiastic manner in which they went to work a concert surpassing the former suc cessful effort of the club may be expected. At the annual election, January 5, the former officers of the club were re-elected, namely Frank Brown, president; Dr. A. H. Hipple, vice president; J. Mellen, secretary; R. M. Brockenridge, treasurer; R. W. Derrick, librarian; J. D. Conrad, assistant librarian. Chopped Two Heads Off. The official ax was wielded in the office of the county surveyor yesterday, and as a result two heads dropped into the basket. When J. E. House took charge of the office a few days ago he concluded that the office force was too large and that he would do a little retrenching, at least until the opening of spring. Carrying out these ideas, yes-terday he discharged Murray Schwartz and Robert H. Willis, the two plat clerks and draughtsmen who were in the office during the "Doc" Smith administration. State Labor Congress. The executive committee of the Nebraska State Labor congress will meet in Patterson hall, 1623 Farnam street, at 10 o'clock today Delegates will meet at 11 o'clock and the session will open at 2 o'clock p. m., with prayer by Rev. John Williams and an address by Mayor Bemis. A cordial invitation is extended to the delegates to the brickavers and masons international convention and to all members of organized labor. George W. William, President.

Military Mention. Lieutenant Lawrence J. Hearn, Twenty first infantry, has been relieved as a member of the general court-martial board in order that he may act as counsel for First Sergeant Samuel Quinn, company I, Twenty-first infantry. The seven days leave of absence granted First Lieutenant George W. McIver, Seventh infantry, by the commanding officer, Camp

Pilot Butte, Wyo., is extended twenty-three days. Commendable. The efforts of business men to aid the Rescue hall fund by holding sales, a certain percentage of which is to be denated to Rescue hall, is commendable. H. Hardy & Co. of the 99 cent store, who originated the idea, held the first sale Friday and Sat-sufferers. The 99 cent store made a real do-nation, as the prices were cut very low for the two days of the sale. Milkmen and Milk Ordinance. At a meeting of the Milk Dealers associa ion last night it was decided to notify the Board of Health that the association would cheerfully comply with the milk ordinance provided the section pertaining to feed were urday, and a neat sum was realized for the repealed, the times of inspection made more numerous, and the sections relating to purity, cleanliness and healthiness be rigidly enforced, and these only. Summer Opera Promised. The Carleton Opera company has been engaged for a summer season of opera at Boyd's theater. The company will appear the last two weeks of May, then go away for a week and return for three weeks in June. Mr. Carleton will produce at least two new operas that have never been heard in Amer-ica before.

SEVEN DAY OPEN CHURCH

Writer in the December Unitarian Tells Why it is Desired.

TO COUNTERACT EVIL ATTRACTIONS

Young Men's Christian Association Affairs -Masons Aid the City Mission-Week of Prayer in Omaha-In the City Putpits.

The December Unitarian contains a very nteresting article from the pen of Helen P. Jenkins of Detroit, entitled "Should Churches Be Closed Six Days in the Week! While the ideas presented are not strictly new, they are clothed with unusual force and earnestness. Miss Jenkins says: "Do churches serve the purpose for which they were created? is a question often asked by church people themselves and by philanthropic people outside the churches. Are they reaching the souls that need salvation? Do they touch the great mass of people in humble life! Do they reach out for the thousands of young men in our cities who are strolling into pathways of glided sin?

"In the city of Detroit, on a fashionable venue, there are ten churches, some of them miracles of art, costing large sums of money-one of them $200,000, it is said. They are used one day in the week and closed the other six days. On Sundays they receive within their doors crowds of handsomely dressed people, good people who enjoy a good sermon. On six days of the week these handsome edifices are closed unused uscless except as specimens of architecture. A young man or woman roam ing the streets of the city, fruitlessly scarch sng for a situation, discouraged, homesick, without money and without friends, on the brink of despair, might reasonably exclaim before one of these dark churches: 'If this s God's house why does he not look out upon me in my despair and give me one ray of hope and comfort? "On this avenue are brilliantly lighted, elegantly appointed saloons, enticing young men all the six days to enter their cheerfu precincts. There they find music, lig freedom, amusement, sociability, and wine cup, and not far distant another gilded palace of perdition. What are the churches loing to reach the souls that are being drawn into these brilliant vestibules of hell Why should not churches offer attraction of the nature of safe amusements, delightfu resting places, social homes to young men in a city, many of whom are far from their families and away from all home influences? Is a church too sacred a building to have somewhere beneath its roof a billiard room, a bowling alley, a reading room, well lighted and warm, a conversation room, where young men could meet their friends and have : deasant chat? Could there not be commit ees of earnest young people (such as may be found in every church) who would superin tend such rooms, arrange a program of music for one evening, a discussion for another ectures for others, and leave one to be devoted to innocent games and social conversation, something after the manner of Toynbea hall? Or even if a committee had to be paid for its services that need not be a serious difficulty. Better a plain church and a per-manent fund for this kind of work than a costly church, wrapped in silence and sanc "I would have at these evenings no talk on dogmatic religion, no proselyting, but cheerful sympathy and encouragement, with an upward tendency, a home atmosphere as seductive as the most brilliant saloon. Such an open home in a church would attract nany young men who would otherwise seel the variety theater, the saloon and the gilded parlors of the demi-monde. There might stroll in some of the proletariate some without polished manners; but is it not these the church needs to reach? proach to our civilization that it has given over to vice so many avenues to the heart of youth

"A shrewd deacon in the early days said 'Why let the devil have all the good tunes?' And we may well ask today: Why surrender to saloons, low theaters, and vice the attractions of light and music and gayety Our great cities are filled with the youths who are to be the men of the future, behooves the church to assist in finding way to save them to themselves and to the community. Costly churches standing in silent grandeur have less power for salvaion than noble and pleasant companionship and that sympathy which reaches out to find a brother, and draws him into paths that lead to the higher life."

What the Y. M. C. A. is Up To. The membership committee of the asso ciation was confronted with 150 tickets expiring on January 1, and it has been pretty lively in trying to make up this deficit and to retain the largest membership number that they have ever had. This month they have issued seventy-six tickets, forty-four to new members and thirty-two renewals. They look forward to not only making up this number, but making a good net gain before the end of the month. The Sunday afternoon service has taken a strong step forward since special attention was given to the musical prelude. Mr. Adelmann, formerly leader of the Trocodero orchestra of Chicago, has been secured as leader and soloist. He will bring with him several members formerly of his orchesta, who will strengthen the association orchestra. Following is the program of the musical prelude by the orchestra Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m.; Violin solo, by Mr. Adelmann; Priest's March, Mendelssohn; Nocturne, by Chopin; Melody in "F", Rubenstein; Gavette, Bennett. Dr. Hellings will deliver the address of the afternoon, taking for his subject, "The Man for the Times." The services will be conducted by Dr. Henry, Mr. Richardson addresses the boys' meeting at 3:45, and V O. Strickler conducts the bible class at The association rooms will be open Sunday from 12:30 until 7 p. m., and in the morning from 9 to 10:30. Mr. Pierce will meet his bible class at 9:15 a. m.

Secretary Ober will be absent Sunday, as he is to go with others to speak at the Young Men's Christian association day at Hast-ings. The pulpits of all the leading churches at Hastings will be occupied by association men on Suniay. Among the speakers will be Chancellor Canfield. Prof. F. W. Taylor. Secretary F. Weber, Mr. E. B. Honderson, Major Halford and Mr. E. W. Lougee, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association at New Hedford, Mass., who is to assist the association at Hastings in the canvass for the debt on their building.

There is a very lively interest manifested in the law lectures which are to be opened n Monday evening by Judge Clarkson, with Hon. Charles A. Goss presiding. One of the most popular features the association has ever introduced into its gymnasium is the bar bell drill, which has been led by Mr. George E. Inglis. A number of applications have been received for the class in Spanish, which is likely to begin next week. It will begin if a class of ten is secured.

Tuesday night Mr. Charles F. Catlin de-livers his magnificently illustrated lecture on the World's fair, which will be a most interesting thing, both to those who have been to the fair and those who have not. The pictures will be twenty feet square and thrown upon a screen by a superior calcium ight lanteen

On account of the many special services which are being held in the churches the reception planned for next Thursday evening to be given by the Young People's so-ciety of the different churches has been postponed until January 30. A reception and entertainment is to be given to the junior members and their friends and fathers on Wednesday evening, the 17th. Quite a number of new members have been added to the evening classes since they opened the second term

Mission Sanday School. Through the kindness of the Masonic fraternity of this city the City Mission Sabbath school, which for many years has mot in an old frame building on Tenth street, near Capitol avenue, has been tendered the use of the beautiful room on the second floor of the Masonic hall, on the corner of Sixteenth street and Capitol avenue, and hereafter will hold its meetings at that place. The City Mission is a non-sectarian matitution having no direct connection with any church organization, its teachers and officers being made up of volunteers without regard to denomination. It is attended mainly by children who have no church, iome or other church affiliation, and by this generosity of the Masonic traternity many hildren of this city will be enabled to have pleasant place to spend Sunday afternoon, here they will not only enjoy themselves in the exercises of the school, but receive instruction of a kind which will be of benefit o themselves and their families. The industrial school, composed of about 150 young girls who are taught to sew by some of the kind-hearted ladies of the city and who are allowed to take home with them the garments which they make, will also be permitted to use the hall as an encouragement to their good work. The Sunday school will begin its operaions in its new quarters this Sunday, January 14, at 3 o'clock p. m. Common Law for Common Men.

The Young Men's Christian association has arranged a series of informal lectures on legal topics which every man should know. The course will be opened on next Monday evening by Judge Clarkson, who will speak on "Landlord and Tenant." Hon, Charles A. Goss, who arranged the course, will preside. This first lecture of the course is free to all, but the lectures will be, as is customary with all the evening classes of the association, for members and those holdng special tickets. Following is the course f lectures arranged:

Landlord and Tenant—Hon, Joseph Clarkson, Public Carriers—Hon, John M., Thurston, Negotlable Instruments—Mr. John L. Ken-

Wills and Estates—Hon, Howard B, Smith,
Administration of Criminal Law—Mr, Will-iam F, Gurley, Conveyancing—Mr, James B, Meikle, Employer and Employe—Mr. Edgar H. Scott. Marriage and Divorce—Hon. James M. Wool-Guardian and Ward-Mr. W. D. McHugh

Satisfactorily Settled. The controversy between Rev. Father P. F. McCarthy, formerly pastor of St. Philomena's cathedral, and Bishop Scannell, has come to an end. Father McCarthy had a conference with the bishop yesterday which resulted in an adjustment of their differences satisfactorily to all concerned. The ap-of the pastor, for it insures a continuance of his labors in the diocese of Omaha, where he has ministered faithfully and beneficially for fifteen years. Week of Prayer, Many city churches have observed the week of prayer, perhaps none with more pleasure and profit than the Pirst Preshyterian church. The attendance has been larger than ever sefore in the history of the church and the interest has been very deep.

Members will be publicly received at the service Sunday morning and the church will be very materially strengthened in membership.
